

DR. B. HOTCHKIN FORMER TINLEY RESIDENT, DIES

Dr. Benjamin L. Hotchkin, pioneer Chicago physician and for many years professor of interior medicine at the Chicago Homeopathic Medical College, died Friday, March 15th at the Illinois Masonic Hospital after a long siege of the "flu."

Funeral services were conducted by the Chicago Commandery of the Knights Templars on Saturday afternoon March 16th at his late home in Chicago, and were concluded at Pleasant Hill Cemetery near Frankfort, Illinois.

Dr. Hotchkin was born Sept. 1, 1852 at Blue Island, Illinois to William and Ellen Hotchkin. Later, with his parents, he moved to the old Hotchkin farm south of Tinley Park, which his father bought from the government. He was educated in the local country schools and at the Normal School for Teachers. After teaching a few years he studied medicine at the Chicago Homeopathic Medical College.

In 1885 Dr. Hotchkin was united in marriage to Miss Lillie M. Windes, of Chicago, a sister to the late Judge Thomas G. Windes of the Circuit Court. To this union three children were born, Merritt W., Harry T. and Mrs. Helen H. Means.

The deceased was a member of the Edgewater Lodge No. 901, A. F. and A. M., the Loyal Chapter No. 33, R. A. M., the Chicago Commandery No. 19, Knight Templar, the Oriental Consistory and Medinah Temple.

Dr. Hotchkin is survived by his widow, two sons and one daughter, one sister, May A. Hotchkin of Chicago and two brothers, Dr. Wm. F. Hotchkin of Blue Island, Ill., and Mark D. Hotchkin of Mokena, Ill.

Elmore May Open Another Subdivision

Tinley Park has a wonderful future ahead of it from present indications. The Elmore Real Estate Co., of Chicago which has developed the subdivision south of Tinley Park is also planning to start another subdivision on the Bert Fulton farm at the north of Tinley Park. The farm has been surveyed and blue prints have been made of the property showing it laid out in very choice lots. About half of the farm will be in the village limits and will come under the new zoning ordinance. The deal for the purchase of this farm will most likely be closed this week.

Last Friday night Mr. Elmore met with the zoning committee of the village of Tinley Park and said he will cooperate in every way with the village board. It is said homes costing about $8,000 or more will be located along Oak Park avenue and in the zoning district.

Soon as the deal for the farm is closed work on developing the new subdivision will be begun.

The village board members were very well impressed with Mr. Elmore.

Merle Bettenhausen Now Motor Cop

Merle Bettenhausen has been appointed motorcycle policeman and will operate out of the Homewood office. He received his star and was assigned on duty Tuesday.

Thieves Steal Electric Ice Box

Last Saturday night thieves entered the Elmore real estate office south of Tinley Park and stole a new electric refrigerator valued at $260. The robbery was not discovered until Sunday by agents of the Elmore company. The latter are offering a reward leading to the arrest of the thieves or recovery of the ice box. The refrigerator had been used for demonstration purposes.

Tinley Fishermen Seek Finney Tribe

Wm. F. Koehler and George R. Lorenz, two of the best fishermen of Tinley Park that every stretched a line, are spending a few days on the Harry Storm farm near New Lenox fishing for red horse. When it comes to catching the finney tribe these fishermen are no suckers.

The balmy weather caused George to get out the fishing tackle and when "Patsy" saw that he right off the bat had the fishing fever.

Fred Hentsch Now Is Radio Doctor

Fred Hentsch of Mokena has a wonderful testing device for testing the voltage and amount of current any kind of a radio whether all electric or battery operated needs, and also shows the condition of the tubes and if they do not function right he can tell what the trouble is and how to overcome it. When your radio is sick just call on Mr. Hentsch and he will diagnose the case. Often times it is only a simple matter. Mr. Hentsch is the first one to have the new tester in this section.

Tinley Garden Club Has Had Wonderful Year Is Report

The regular business meeting of the Tinley Park Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. John Klepper last Friday evening. The meeting was a most interesting one inasmuch as all committee members active in the Chicago Garden and Flower Show, recently held at the Sherman Hotel, made reports and related their experiences.

A nominating committee was named and will present a list of candidates to be balloted upon at the April meeting of the club. An auditing committee was appointed and the accounts of the club will be examined and verified before the next meeting.

At the close of the business meeting, the president, Mrs. Wm. Funk, addressed the club and told how thoroughly she had enjoyed her position as president and expressed a wish that the next president would secure an equal amount of pleasure and satisfaction during her term. Mrs. Funk will go down in the history of the Tinley Park Garden Club as their first president. She has taken the greatest interest in flower garden activities. Through the good work of the leaders and the splendid help of the workers, the Garden Club is leaving behind a year of splendid accomplishments. We all remember with pleasure the big success of the Club's greatest feature during the past year—the flower show. Mrs. Florence Anderson was chairman of the Flower Show committee and her untiring efforts to make it a success were indeed, crowned with glory. Every committee, in fact every member, has had a keen interest and used their talents generously.

In the spirit of appreciation for the splendid cooperation members gave their president since the formation of the Garden Club, Mrs. Funk closed the meeting with a delightful surprise by presenting each member with a flowering bulb which is to be planted May 4th. Then, after the bulb is blooming, all are to be gathered and a prize will be awarded the owner of the most perfect blossom. Mrs. Klepper served delicious cocoa and doughnuts.

The program of the next meeting will be election of officers and will be held at the home of Mrs. A. C. Koehler on April 19th.

Mrs. A. C. Koehler entertained the Rho Beta Tau girls at bridge on Tuesday evening.

ARE YOU LUCKY? TRY THIS

Old man weather is fooling people this year. Last Thursday it looked like spring was here to stay. On Friday it rained and flooded many fields. The rest of the week was fair. This week spring again looks like it is within our grasp. Can you guess what it will do next? Rain, snow, fair, bad or good weather—it is your turn to guess.

SPRING FEVER

With the balmy days of spring and the singing of birds, the pupils of the Mokena school have that dreaded disease called spring fever. As the days grow warmer there is a growing tendency to gaze longingly out of the windows. With a week's vacation next week most of the pupils ought to get over their sickness somewhat.

The Town Doctor SAYS

The vital problem that confronts every community today is one of selling. It has always been one of selling, but in the past, probably of less importance, since most towns could get by on the rising market, so to speak.

A few years ago store keepers thought of their business as many now think of their community. They thought because their store had been in existence for years, it always would be; there were people, and people had to buy what the store carried in stock. Then came automobiles and good roads, free mail delivery, radio, telephone and MERCHANTS. With the coming of these, "store keepers" and "clerks" had to become merchants and sales people, or lose their business to those who were.

Because for ages past comparative no constructive attention has been paid to community building, community planning, selling and analysis, it is often considered as unnecessary. Many people reason that because there always have been cities, towns and villages, there always will be, the same as some retailers still think of their store as a supply depot where people who have a definite idea of what they want, will get it without action from them or encouragement or service from the clerks. You know what happens to "store keepers" who refuse to be merchants—who do not sell. The same will happen to towns and communities who take a like attitude.

This is a Selling Age. There isn't a business, a profession, or a job, that doesn't require some form of selling. Every married man WAS a salesman, when he induced "her" to say "yes". And the wise married man hasn't quit selling. Every married woman sells sometimes, and how! She has to, to make life bearable. The shebas and sheiks are constantly selling. You and I are selling. We may not carry a sample case, we may not be behind the counter, but we are everlastingly selling something—an idea, ourselves, or perhaps a friend. When you ask for a raise, a day off, a little more credit,

Rev. Harold Sandall Appointed Pastor of The Mokena M. E.

It is officially announced that the Rev. Harold Sandall, a student at Garrett Biblical Institute in Evanston, Illinois, will succeed the Rev. Glen T. Beatty as pastor of the Mokena Methodist Episcopal Church. The transfer of pastorate will take place on Easter Sunday.

Mr. Sandall comes to Mokena well recommended. He has preached for four years prior to coming to Evanston, most of that time being while a student in college. He received his B. A. degree from Nebraska Wesleyan University, of Lincoln, Nebraska last Spring and started his studies in the graduate school at Garrett Biblical Institute last fall. The minister was an honor student at his college and was awarded a scholarship at Garrett because of his achievements. In his college life, Rev. Sandall was president of the Oxford Fellowship Club which is an undergraduate fraternity composed of ministerial students. This position was one of honor to him.

Mr. Sandall was in Mokena a few weeks ago to look over the field and so that the people might hear and see him before accepting the appointment which was made by the Rev. Leon L. Hammett, of DeKalb, Illinois, the District Superintendent of the Joliet-Dixon District. Those who met Rev. Mr. Sandall at that time expressed themselves well pleased with his prospects and he in turn felt that there was a field of work at Mokena in which he would be interested.

Mr. Beatty's leaving is occasioned by his near completion of his Seminary course at Garrett. It is his plan that he and his wife should take up full time pastorate in his own conference which is in the states of Oklahoma and Texas. He has been with the local church for a period of three and a half years. He was married a year and a half ago and since that time the church enjoyed a pastor's wife for the first time within a few years.

Mr. Beatty will preach his last sermon at the early Easter morning service at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Sandall will conduct his first entire service at Mokena on Easter Sunday evening. All the public is invited to attend these services.

BOYS TAKE LONG RIDE

Last Sunday afternoon three Mokena boys, Edward Welch, James G. Marti, and Robert Frisch, mounted their bicycles and took a long ride. Starting at Mokena, they rode on Wolf Road to the end of the pavement, then turned east and rode to Orland. From Orland they went to Route 51 and rode south to Frankfort. They then came down the Lincoln highway until they got to the Wolf road leading to Mokena and rode back to Mokena.

Sunday was a wonderful day for bicycle riding or any outdoor sport. The boys were rather tired from this long ride, but claimed to have had a wonderful time.

or any favor or courtesy, you are giving. Someone said, "Selling is giving the other fellow a reason why he should do what you want him to do or not do, and salesmanship is getting him to do it."

COMMUNITY SELLING is getting other people to THINK your town is a better place in which to invest their money for a factory, a business, an enterprise, for real estate, merchandise or any of those things that will induce them to do it, and avoiding those things that will keep them from doing it.

You are a salesman or a saleswoman for the place where you live. You are working on a commission basis; you get paid according to what you do, and you will get paid, and generously. You do not have to own real estate, operate a store, be a professional man or in any business, to profit from community growth and expansion, but even if you didn't make a dime actual cash out of it, it is worth the effort to enjoy better, more interesting and attractive surroundings, to have better schools, more parks, etc., which are bound to come as a result of SELLING your community—not considering the satisfaction you get out of doing something for the good of all—something that you KNOW, you ought to do.

No doubt there will be "store keepers" and "clerks" for several years to come; there will always be cities and towns, but because your town has always been, as far as you are concerned, that is no reason why it will continue to be. It may EXIST throughout your life time, as a sickly city, a tired town, vanishing village, or callous community, but without getting sold on it yourself, and without selling it to others, by your every action, word and deed, your community CANNOT keep up to and ahead of date.

Don't let your community get behind the times. Do YOUR part. It will be just as modern, just as ALIVE as you will work to make it.

Clarence Goesel Candidate For Tinley J. P. Office

In view of the fact that the Village of Tinley Park, has been for some years, without the services of a Justice of the Peace residing in or in the immediate vicinity of the Village, a number of the town people and residents of Bremen Township have petitioned Clarence H. E. Goesel to be nominated for that office.

Inasmuch as there are five Justices of the Peace to be elected at the forth-coming township election, these people would like a representative elected, if possible, from that Village, as occasions frequently arise, where a Justice residing in the immediate vicinity, can save much time and avoid delay for all parties concerned.

Mr. Goesel, a resident of Tinley Park, for more than twenty years, has been very active in community affairs, having been a former president of the "Three Arts Club" of Tinley Park, was president of the "Triangle Club of Tinley Park" for three terms, is a member of the Lions International and The Rock Island Country Club.

He is engaged in the Real Estate Brokerage business in Tinley Park, and is a close student of the law. Mr. Goesel is a candidate on The Peoples Independent Party Ticket.

COLORS ENLIVEN SPRING HATS; FLOWERS USED IN TRIMMING

IT MUST be admitted that the charming exotic straws shown this season are making felts look to their laurels. However, even in face of the keen competition of the straw chapeau the felt hat is holding its own. Women are loath to abandon felts, especially when the new models are more fascinating than ever from the standpoint of color and contour.

A happy solution to the problem as to whether it shall be felt or straw for spring is to decide upon both, by Color combinations are being featured to a wide extent. The very latest message is that of black-and-white millinery.

More flowers! This is fashion's message in brief. In matter of costume decoration women are becoming more and more flower-conscious. Not only is there renewed enthusiasm for flowers posed on the lapels of our coats, or gracefully trailing from the shoulders of our evening gowns, or that which is latest, positioning the choosing one of the nobby straw-and-felt types which are the outstanding theme among milliners at present.

This interworking of felt with straw is offering to the designer an endless opportunity to express "ideas." Many of the straws are elaborated with felt inserts and appliques or vice versa. This treatment is intricately carried out for the first hat in the picture. In this instance black felt is cleverly patterned with scissors, the cutout work applied on a softly draped straw. With the addition of a simple ornament, this model becomes a most beguiling exponent of the straw-with-felt types which lead in spring millinery displays.

An entirely different handling of felt with straw is that given to the cloche effect just below. Here the crown is straw, natural colored bakou, with felt forming the face-framing brim, brought to an effective bow trim at one side.

A smart interpretation of the straw-and-felt theme is presented in the model centered to the right. Not only are corsage at the back of the low-cut decolletage. The most recent call of the mode is for flowers used in a trimming way, rather than merely accessory.

The tendency to trim with flowers is making definite appeal to stylists who see in floral treatments a new approach to lovely effects.

In the picture, flowers are featured as an integral part of dress decoration. The model to the left shows a distinctly new idea—a "flower garter dress." Two rose-colored flowers form the trimming on this black satin dinner dress. The third flower is attached to a band of satin in such a way that it shows when the wearer moves.

A striking ensemble is shown to the right. It consists of a soft rose chiffon dress with a separate coat of the same fabric. Large chiffon chrysanthemums in a deeper rose shade outline the neckline on one side of the dress. On the other side, the chrysanthemums are used on the coat, thus forming an entire garland of flowers the insets of straw adroitly introduced but the tricolor pipings are a smart detail. The long effect at the back achieved in this hat also follows a featured trend.

The remaining two hats, one at the top and the other in the circle below, answer the question why felts continue to repeat their triumphs season in and season out. To describe them as being in any one color would limit them, for just such types are available in most of the newest colorings, which include such alluring hues as chartreuse, Pandora green, citron, mauve, the important capucine shades, sun-burn colors, navy and especially independent blue, also various yellows, for yellow tones are smartly emphasized for spring.

about the hips. Matching flowers adorn the bodice.

Novel flower treatments on chiffon frocks of gay flower print add interest to less formal modes. The idea is to repeat the flowers patterned on the chiffon. If large roses are the fabric motif then roses of similar shape and color are worn as a corsage. If the flowers themselves are not duplicated then at least the colorings in the prints are reproduced in the boutonniere.

Tulle frocks garlanded with dainty flowers, or with wee bouquets scattered here and there, are among fashion's most approved evening modes.

STEWARDSHIP AND MISSIONS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 1:6-8; II Cor. 8:1-9.

GOLDEN TEXT—It is required in stewards that a man be found faithful (I Cor. 4:2).

PRIMARY TOPIC—Love Gifts for God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Love Gifts for God. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Is to Be a Christian Steward.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Stewardship of Self, Substance and Service.

I. Witnessing for Christ (Acts 1:6-8).

This is the supreme obligation resting upon believers in this age. While we are not responsible for bringing in the kingdom, we are under solemn obligation to witness to the salvation which is graciously provided for all who believe in Jesus Christ.

1. The disciples' question (v. 6).

They said, "Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?" The phrase "this time" indicates their perplexity as to the time of the kingdom's establishment. They were entirely right in their expectation of the kingdom, for it had been predicted by the prophets, and announced by Christ as "at hand." However, they were in darkness as to the real purpose of God in calling and establishing the church. This is a matter concerning which there is much confusion today.

2. Christ's answer (vv. 7, 8).

He turned their attention from the desire to know times and seasons, which belong to God, to their supreme duty. They were to be witnesses of Christ to the uttermost parts of the earth, beginning at Jerusalem.

II. Christian Stewardship (II Cor. 8:1-9).

1. Examples of true Christian benevolence (vv. 1-5).

The liberality of these Macedonian churches exhibits practically every exalted principle and motive entering into the giving which has God's sanction.

(1) The source of true giving (v. 1). This is said to be the grace of God, by which is meant that the disposition to give freely of our means is created by the Holy Spirit.

(2) They gave from the depths of their poverty, not from the abundance of their riches (v. 2). Their limited means did not cause them to be stinted in their gifts, but their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their liberality. On the basis of this philosophy, our poverty ought to be a call for greater generosity, for God has promised that if we give liberally He will give liberally in return.

(3) Their willingness surpassed their ability (v. 3).

God's gifts are reckoned by the degree of willingness, not by the amount given (see v. 12, cf. 9:7).

(4) They were insistent on being allowed the privilege of giving (v. 4).

(5) They first gave themselves to the Lord (v. 5). This is most fundamental to right giving, for when one gives himself to the Lord there is no reason for withholding his gifts. If one does not first give himself there will be the desire to retain as much for self as can be done within the bounds of respectability. We should first induce men and women to give their lives to the Lord.

2. Emulation of Macedonian benevolence urged (vv. 6-15). Moved by the generosity of the Macedonian churches, Paul desired Titus to commend to the Corinthians the same grace. This he urged upon them.

(1) Not as a command (v. 8). Acceptable giving must not only be liberal, but spontaneous.

(2) As a proof of the sincerity of their love (v. 8).

(3) As the completion and harmony of Christian character (v. 7).

The Corinthian church abounded in spiritual gifts such as faith, utterance, knowledge, diligence, and love for their ministers, but the grace of liberality was needed for the harmony of their lives.

(4) The self-sacrificing example of Christ (v. 9). Self-sacrifice is the test of love. All who have enthroned Him as the Lord of their lives, crowned Him Lord of all, will desire to imitate Him in all things.

(5) The true principle upon which gifts are acceptable with God (vv. 10-12).

God does not estimate the value of a gift upon the ground of intrinsic worth, but of the underlying motive of the giver.

(6) Because of common equality (vv. 13-15). Every Christian should give something. The law governing the gift is the ability of the giver.

His Presence

Many Christians cannot realize His presence because for them Christ lives in their heads or Bibles, but not in their hearts.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

United States Senators Charles S. Deneen and Otis F. Glenn deserve considerable credit for the good work they did for Scott field. Had it not been for the Illinois senators, Scott field would no doubt have been discontinued.

Representative Charles Weber and Thomas J. O'Grady of Chicago have introduced a bill in the house to repeal the prohibition act and the search and seizure act. However, the house judiciary committee has returned an unfavorable report on the search and seizure measure and it is dead unless the house votes to overturn the committee action.

Senator Kessinger's bill, authorizing towns of not more than 5,000 population, to purchase and erect community buildings or to acquire them by gift and to levy taxes and issue bonds, has passed the house and senate and now goes to Governor Emerson.

The bill introduced by Senator A. H. Roberts, of Chicago, prohibiting the sale, possession and transportation of machine guns except when in use by the army, navy or other military officers, has passed the senate and is before the house.

Gov. Louis L. Emerson will soon inaugurate a program of weekly cabinet meetings to discuss state affairs.

Senator Lowell B. Mason, of Oak Park, is sponsoring a bill appropriating $200,000 for a monument in Chicago or Cook county to commemorate the places of Illinois veterans of all ages.

Representative Rena Elrod, of Chicago, has introduced some interesting bills pertaining to the service of women on juries.

Senator Simon E. Lantz, of Woodford county, reports that over $2,000,000 worth of poultry are stolen annually from Illinois farms. Should Senator Lantz' bill become a law it would make it easier to trace stolen fowls. Hard roads have made it much easier for poultry thieves.

Senator Martin R. Carlson, of Moline, has introduced a bill for an Illinois bell at the shrine of George Washington at Valley Forge. Senator Carlson is president pro tem of the upper house. The bill calls for an appropriation of $7,500 for the bell.

Representative Robert Scholes, of Peoria, although quite seriously ill, is taking an active part in the affairs of the house of representatives. Representative Scholes offered a bill through the service of his colleague, David McClugage of Peoria, for the building of a connecting hard road between routes 29 and 88.

Senator R. Boyd, of Galva, has introduced a bill to make automobile license plates in the Illinois penal institutions and have them distributed by county clerks instead of by the secretary of state. Should Senator Boyd's bill become a law, the name of each county would be placed on each plate that is used in the county and the plates would be numbered consecutively in the county. The plates would be shipped to the county treasurers, who would remit to the auditor. Senator Boyd has also introduced a bill taxing chain stores.

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill's bill providing for revision of the school attendance law has received favorable action by the house committee on elections. It requires school attendance up to sixteen years of age.

Representative Charles L. Wood, of Keosauqua, has introduced a bill providing for the reading of the Bible in the public schools. The house committee on education has returned an unfavorable report for this bill.

Chairman David I. Swanson, of the house committee on judiciary, is pushing the work of the committee to top speed.

Senator Thomas J. Courtney, of Chicago, has created considerable interest by the introduction of a bill which strikes the death blow to what the Anti-Vivisection society calls "archaic methods of medical profession."

Senator Earl B. Searcy, of Springfield, is making a special effort for a bill appropriating $700,000 for an addition to the Centennial building in Springfield. This building would be used as an office building and save considerable rent for the state.

Representative Thomas J. O'Grady of Chicago has introduced some amendments to the Blue Sky law. The bill has been sent to the committee on banks.

Representative E. W. Turner, of Chicago, has introduced a bill appropriating $804,000 for a rifle range at Camp Grant.

Representative H. M. Luckey, of Potomac, has introduced a bill to prohibit the return of bakery goods from the store to the baker furnishing them.

Senator Richard Barr, of Joliet, has introduced a bill to provide for polls to be opened from 6 a. m. to 4 p. m., and from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m., at the option of the county board except in cities under the city election act.

Harry M. Slater, chief rate expert for the Illinois Commerce commission, has tendered his resignation to take effect May 1.

It is said that Director Ralph Bradford of the department of conservation has cut 102 game wardens off the pay roll.

The weekly report of Dr. Thomas H. Leonard, acting state health director, shows that there are 174 cases of diphtheria, 570 of scarlet fever, 8 of typhoid fever and 147 of smallpox under quarantine in the state at present.

Foreign markets for Illinois merchandise were less numerous in the second quarter of 1928 than in the corresponding period of 1927, says the United States Department of Commerce.

The state department of police is checking up on all motorists who have not yet secured 1929 licenses. A number of arrests have been made in various parts of the state for failure to secure the tags.

State Senator Epler C. Mills, Virginia, has been in a Springfield hospital recovering from the effects of a severe cold.

The Illinois Tuberculosis and Public Health association is conducting an early diagnosis campaign throughout the month of April. This is the second campaign of this kind to discover the disease in its earliest stages. One way to help Illinois is to help stamp out tuberculosis. Mrs. Jayne B. Kerr of Springfield is the very able executive secretary of the association.

Senator W. L. Finn, Luka, A. A. Miles, Rosiclare, and Harry Wilson, Pinckneyville; Representatives, Flora S. Cheney, Chicago; F. W. Lewis, Robinson, Elbert Waller, Tamaroa; Mrs. George Palmer, Springfield, Dr. Otto L. Schmidt, Chicago, and Perry McCullough, Lawrenceville, were members of the delegation who represented Illinois at the George Rogers Clark Sesquicentennial celebration at Vincennes, Indiana. Illinois may join with other states in the construction of a Clark memorial.

A resolution has been introduced in the Ohio legislature appropriating $2,700 for creating a George Rogers Clark memorial commission of Ohio to sponsor the erection of a George Rogers Clark memorial at Vincennes, Ind. Illinois is also being asked to aid in the building of this monument as this state was created from the old northwest territory and was the scene of many of Clark's activities.

The house committee on appropriations has decided not to buy a voting machine and the state will save $2,800 as a result of this decision. Representative Homer Tice is chairman of the committee.

Hon. Allen T. Lucas, Chandlerville, and J. M. Weaver, Oakfield, special Lincoln Memorial highway committee, have started a tour of the proposed highway and will hold meetings along the route as far as Vincennes, Ind.

Illinois manufactured 218 airplanes last year and is listed by the aeronautical chamber of commerce as sixth in the production of airplanes in the United States. Wichita, Kan., leads in the production of aircraft.

Governor Emerson has issued a proclamation designating the week beginning Sunday, April 23, as Health Promotion week and child health day. Municipalities of the state are urged to co-operate in making the week beneficial to all engaged in health work.

The shaft above the tomb of Abraham Lincoln may be entirely rebuilt during the course of renovation work planned by the state. State Supervising Architect Herrick Hammond's report will be presented to Harry Cleveland, director of public works and buildings, soon.

A township supervisor is not eligible to hold a position as overseer of work done in behalf of the county, Attorney General Carlstrom has ruled at the request of State's Attorney Mark Keller of Lee county. He asked if a supervisor, who is an engineer, could be hired to oversee the construction of a bridge across Rock river to be built jointly by the city and county.

Illinois will receive $3,118,949 as its share of $73,125,000 apportioned by the government for federal aid in road construction for the fiscal year which begins July 1. Illinois will receive more money from federal sources than any other state in the Union with the exceptions of New York, $3,617,748, and Pennsylvania, $3,325,854.

Representative Robert Scholes, of Peoria, has introduced a bill appropriating $260,000 for a hard road near Chillicothe.

Representative T. J. Sullivan, of Springfield, has introduced a bill appropriating $9,900 to pave around the executive mansion in Springfield.

If the present plans of the Fifty-Sixth general assembly are carried out, the state auditor will have supervision over the auditing of the records of county officials.

Diplomacy Not Small

Girl's Strong Point

The time was an autumn afternoon, the place was at an East side drug store and the characters were two women and a little girl.

"The conversation which was being carried on over their soda glasses had drifted to the fact that Rev. Mr. Blank had been at the home of Mrs. Jones the day before for lunch. The conversation ran thus:

"I would sure hate to be the wife of a minister," exclaimed Mrs. Smith. "Don't s'pose I'd like it, either," said Mrs. Jones.

"Do you think a minister would have me for a wife?" asked Mrs. Smith, turning to the child, who was Mrs. Jones' little daughter.

"I expect he would," replied the little girl. "The ministers aren't supposed to pick the pretty ones."—Indianapolis News.

How to Get Rid of a Severe Cold

"Last August I took a very severe cold and it seemed that I couldn't break it up. I got so bad that I was confined to my bed for five weeks, doctoring all the time without getting any relief. I had no appetite, naturally lost flesh. In fact, I had given up all hopes of ever getting any better."

"A friend recommended Milks Emulsion and I commenced its use. When able to leave my bed I weighed 111 pounds. Now, after taking Milks Emulsion five weeks, I weigh 125 pounds, feel better than I have felt in two years, can eat anything, work every day, the cold and work every day. I thank God and Milks Emulsion for restoring my health." MRS. MARGARET WASHINGTON, 1699 E. 14th St., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Says Sleep Waste of Time

Sleep is a waste of time, according to seventy-year-old Michael McCarthy of Kinsale, Ireland. So he is giving up the "habit" and spends most of his time when not working as a baker in hunting on foot with his pack of foxhounds. "Sleeping is only a habit, and at the most I sleep only five or six hours a month," he says. "I never yawn and I forget when I was last tired. Life is too short to sleep. I have never been seriously ill in my life."

In Hock

"I pity the poor pawnbroker, pa." "What for?" "Just think of the watches he has to set back in daylight saving business."

You Can't Dye a Dress with Promises!

You can't dye a dress—no matter how careful you may be—without real color. That's the idea behind Diamond Dyes. They are made to give you real service. They contain from three to five times more aniline than other dyes on the market.

Next time you want to dye, try Diamond Dyes. See how easy it is to use them. Then compare results. Note the absence of that re-dyed look; of streaking, or spotting. See how soft, bright, new looking the colors are. Then observe how they keep their brilliance through wear and washing. If you don't agree Diamond Dyes are better dyes, your dealer will refund your money.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the original "all-purpose" dye for any and every kind of material. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk or wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. When you buy—remember this. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk and wool. Your dealer has both packages.

Burros Out of Business

The burro was once one of the institutions of the West, but now in many sections, particularly in the Southwest, the animal has been thrown into the discard. Once they were valued burden bearers, but now they have been abandoned, as their work is done by the automobile. They have been set at large in many instances by their one-time owners, and roaming in small bands they have become a nuisance. They enter the smaller towns at night and, besides annoying the residents with their noise, they do considerable damage to crops and other property in their search for food. The town of Santa Fe in New Mexico for a while employed a man to kill wandering burros.

Gun Gave Fire Alarm

Returning from a hunt, Charles Maull, Milford, Del., hung up his gun on the kitchen wall thinking it wasn't loaded, but in this case it was lucky he was mistaken. That night the family was aroused when they heard the gun go off. A fire had broken out in the kitchen and reaching the gun, discharged it. The fire was put out before it spread farther.—Capper's Weekly.

Suit Proved Lasting

What is believed to be one of the oldest suits in England still worn every day belongs to Nicholas Hannen, an actor. In one scene in the play, "Many Waters," he appears in a suit made for him in 1904, when he worked as an architect. The suit is in very good condition, and is held to be proof of the durability of English prewar products.

Slaves Were Shaved

A clean-shaven face in the East was originally a sign of servitude. Old pictures show kings and conquerors heavily bearded and with long hair, while their slaves and captives are clean-shaven and close-cropped. The Greeks and the Romans later discarded "face fungus," as it gave their enemies a hand-hold in the close fighting, which was, of course, the rule in those days.

Good News or Bad?

Eastern scientist says the intelligentsia of America is committing race suicide, and leaves you to guess whether he means it as bad news or good.

Feeling the Scandalmongers

Put it out of the power of any one truly to report you not to be a sincere or a good man; let your practice give the lie; that is all very feasible, for, pray, who can blunder you from being just or sincere? To make all sure, you should resolve to live no longer than you can live honestly; for, in earnest, reason would rather you were nothing than a knave.—Marcus Aurelius.

U. OF I. ASKS 5 MILLION LESS THAN NEIGHBOR

Seventeen Million Requested for Similar Work in Michigan.

The Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, elected by the people to this great public trust, after careful analysis, has concluded that the University will require a minimum of six million, fifteen thousand dollars per year for the next two years, or a total of $12,030,000 for the biennium 1929-31. Much more could judiciously and advantageously be used, they pointed out. In fact, if the requests of the various deans and department heads were adhered to, a million more per year would be withdrawn.

"Those who, at first thought, think this amount large, should compare it with a seventeen million dollar request in a neighboring state," one statement said. "Illinois is fortunate in that only one state institution of University character exists in this commonwealth. Texas, Iowa, Kansas, Indiana, Michigan and others maintain the Agricultural and Mechanical colleges as one institution, while the other branches form another institution in a different location.

"In Illinois there is great economy in having these combined in the University of Illinois. Using Michigan as an example, that state for the last biennium appropriated $14,720,000 for the two branches at Ann Arbor and at East Lansing. For the coming biennium they are requesting $16,851,000, divided as follows: at Ann Arbor $11,920,000, and for the institution at East Lansing, $5,032,000. This seventeen million dollar total compares with the present request of the University of Illinois for $12,030,000 for similar work and approximately the same number.

"The Board of Trustees is asking an increase of a million and a half over the request two years ago. In 1921 the Board told the people that $10,500,000 were appropriated for each two-year period for possibly a decade. The University could probably catch up with its building needs and resume its place among the nation's leaders, adding, however, that at the end of the decade it would doubtless be time to review the whole situation of the University's need and future. Nevertheless, in that year $1,640,000 were deducted from the request. The present Board feels that it must now have $1,500,000 of that amount restored in order to carry out its plan.

"While the Urbana-Champaign departments have been catching up in pretty good style, although there is still room, and need, for added facilities here, the Chicago departments of the institution have not been faring so well. Especially is this true with the College of Medicine and the College of Dentistry.

"The College of Dentistry has been referred to as 'having the finest staff but the poorest building of any Dental School in the country.' "To illustrate further the needs at Chicago, it may be pointed out that last fall it was necessary to refuse admission to one hundred and fifty-nine freshmen who were fully qualified to enter the College of Medicine. All were residents of the State of Illinois. Similar conditions have existed for six years."

BAD EYES HAMPER SCHOOL CHILDREN

Half Seen at U. of I. Research Clinic Vision Faulty.

"Probably five out of every ten children who are backward in their school work are suffering from serious defects of vision, and when properly fitted with glasses are advanced to their proper places in school," according to Dr. Hillard Beards, acting head of the eye department of the Research Hospital of the University of Illinois and the State Department of Public Welfare at Chicago.

"The stories of some of these cases are truly marvelous, but they are sustained by the enthusiasm of the reports of teachers, nurses and parents within the reach of Chicago," he said. "Approximately 75 per cent of the 3,500 new patients and between six and nine thousand old patients of the department are school children."

"Frequent headaches, aching, watering, smarting of the eyes, especially on reading, poor eyesight for distance made evident by the child's complaining that he cannot see the blackboard from the back of the room, are some of the clues that lead to the discovery of eye trouble among children. Too often we find cases where a child has been considered dull and backward in his school work, when the real cause is not mental deficiency but eye trouble."

STATE'S GREATEST LIBRARY

U. of I. Owns Over Three Quarters of Million Volumes on Campus.

One of the really great libraries of the world is on the campus of the University of Illinois for the year-around use of the more than 14,000 students and 1,400 faculty members. From a beginning sixty-one years ago with only 644 books, the library has accumulated a total of 762,187 volumes, 160,560 pamphlets, 2,925 maps and 8,112 pieces of sheet music.

This great mass of literature covers practically every known field of human endeavor. All of the sciences, both natural and physical, great masses of cultural literature, ancient and valuable examples of books from every land, master's and doctor's theses from many of the great universities of the country, and innumerable other types of material from which students may get facts upon which to enlarge their scope of knowledge, are represented.

Fruit and Produce Auctioned Over Long Distance Circuits

Novel Exchange of Advantage to Both Buyers and Producers

BY means of Bell Systems' transcontinental telephone circuits, California fruit and produce growers are ridding themselves of the disadvantages resulting from their distance from middle western and eastern markets. The organization supplying this service, beneficial both to farmers and wholesale houses, is the Agricultural Exchange of Pittsburgh, which in a few years has developed a countrywide auction of produce during the busy season, the bidders for which are located in the chief markets of the nation.

The Exchange's branch office in San Francisco each day collects detailed information concerning cars of produce being shipped east and at night distributes this catalogue over the wire to other branches in eleven cities between Minneapolis and Boston. The next morning these offices notify prospective local customers as to the nature of the shipment and the date of its departure from California. At 3 o'clock that afternoon, Eastern Standard time, the buyers meet in the Exchange's offices in the different cities, and at this time, while the produce is still en route eastward, the goods are auctioned.

"Line 1" is announced from Pittsburgh, and the buyers, who possess mimeographed sheets giving descriptions of "Line 1," make their bids. "Thirty-two," says a buyer in Chicago, and "Chicago thirty-two" is promptly relayed to the assembled jobbers by the operators in the other sales offices. A Boston house offers thirty-five dollars and this bid is similarly announced. The car is finally sold to a Cleveland jobber for forty-one dollars.

Since the cars are sold f. o. b. shipping point, and since the California producer is in immediate touch with current prices, the advantages of this system are obvious. A 5,400 mile circuit thus affords quick sale and provides the fruit grower in California with a market comprising eleven of the largest eastern cities.

HANDLES ALL CALLS AT WHITE HOUSE

International Newsreel

Joseph F. Sheahan, Chief Telephone Operator, who handles all outgoing and incoming calls at the White House, is a busy man these days with the change in administrations. Main 6, Washington, D. C., is the number of "the chief telephone of the land," but if you think you can get the President simply by calling that number you are very much mistaken.

Should you wish to talk with one of the clerical employees in the White House offices you would be connected, but if you desire to talk to the President or to one of his secretaries it would be necessary for you to identify yourself. In case your request appeared to be a reasonable one you would be connected with the secretary to the President, or with one of his assistant secretaries, but unless you are one of the chosen few, as, for example, a member of the Cabinet, a leader of the House or Senate, or a personal friend, your chances of getting the President himself on the wire are most remote.

A LIBRARY OF HEART THROBS

The curious sounds of the human heart, so difficult to analyze and remember yet so important in diagnosis, can now be recorded, perused at leisure, and compared with similar records of typical cases and with earlier records of the same case to determine the nature and progress of a patient's condition. The co-operation of Dr. Richard Cabot, Dr. C. J. Gamble, the Columbia Phonograph Company and Bell Telephone Laboratories has produced a recording electrical stethoscope with which to learn, teach and practice cardiac diagnostics. The student hears not only all types of heart sounds but the comments of the attending specialists; the teacher's lecture is exemplified through a loud speaker; accurate and imperishable records replace the practitioner's fallible memory.

The Carnot Exchange, the first automatic exchange in Paris, with a capacity of 6,000 lines, has been opened, and four more automatic exchanges are scheduled to be cut into service during the winter.

TRAVELERS NEED MORE TELEPHONE SERVICE NOW

So Railroad Terminals Increase Their Telephone Facilities To Meet Demands

Public telephones are appreciated perhaps nowhere more than in a large railroad station, and one of the places where such telephone service is used to its greatest extent is the Grand Central Terminal in New York City. There a total of 12,500 local and out-of-town calls are made on each average day of the year.

In order to take care of this traffic which is rapidly increasing because of the vast army of travelers who use the station, commuters and others, it has been necessary to increase greatly the telephone facilities by installing a number of new booths and coin stations. As a result, there has recently been placed in service a new unit of 19 booths with operator service, and 8 coin stations on the east side of the lower level of the station. This brings the total public stations serving the big terminal up to 226 in number.

Of these public telephones, 166 are coin stations and 60 are operator, attended by a force of 20 supervisors and operators. In addition to the new telephone unit on the lower level, there is another unit on the upper level immediately above which has 30 booths with operator service and 21 coin stations. At the west end of the lower level is another unit with 8 booths with operator service and 16 coin telephones, while coin telephones are scattered about the big terminal building so that they are available in all parts.

The telephone operators stationed in the Grand Central Terminal often have occasion to aid the traveling public. Their sympathetic co-operation many times has aided persons in locating their friends and relatives. Four messenger boys are also at the service of the telephone patrons and are frequently able to help in a most valuable way.

PRaises SERVICE

Colonel Sherrill, City Manager of the city of Cincinnati, declares that the city's telephone service is the best advertisement the municipality has. So important does he deem this feature of the government that he has placed the supervision of the switchboards at the City Hall in the hands of Robert N. Olin, Director of Service. Colonel Sherrill says that the telephone operators can be of great assistance both to the public and to the officials by the use of courtesy.

When Miss Lena Roten, telephone operator at Torrington, Wyo., was married recently, the ceremony took place at the local telephone office, the bride standing beside the switchboard where she had been employed.

Telephone Typewriter Apparatus Used in Many Lines of Business

Scope of This Method of Communication Includes a Variety of Applications Which is Constantly Increasing

THE increasing tempo of modern business, operating over constantly widening areas, has created an unprecedented demand for means of communication that will provide the close contact necessary between the scattered units of a commercial or industrial organization. Whether they are across the street from each other or across a continent, the various units of a modern business enterprise require a medium of communication that will permit a degree of coordination approaching that of an organization housed in a single building.

To meet this demand the telephone typewriter has been adapted to business uses. This device has for many years been the principal channel of the Press for collecting and distributing the nation's news stories.

The telephone typewriter is a device which typewrites by wire, combining the features of two major accessories of modern business—the telephone and the typewriter. It is similar to the ordinary typewriter and any typist can operate it. It prints either on a page of standard size or on a narrow tape, and has a high speed capacity of about 60 words a minute.

Remarkable Growth Shown
In the brief period since its adoption by business, telephone typewriter service has had a remarkable growth. While the nation-wide networks used by the Press are still the largest in operation, a total of approximately 80,000 miles of Bell System wire now provides service for business enterprises of all kinds. The growth in this new field is indicated by the fact that in the past year new services installed have added roughly 47,000 miles of wire.

Among the most important users of telephone typewriter service are the financial institutions. Nearly 8,000 miles of wire are used by banks, while brokerage houses require more than 10,000 miles. One of the brokerage firms maintains a network linking offices in nineteen cities scattered from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

With keen competition in the banking field and with the public transferring their savings from the corner cupboard to securities of all kinds, the business of these companies keeps the wires loaded to capacity.

Useful to Manufacturers

One of the first manufacturing groups to adopt the telephone typewriter as a major communication channel was the textile industry. With mills located at points that were generally remote from the principal markets, these companies required a communication system of large capacity. In all, this group now employs circuits totalling approximately 5,000 miles in length. These link general and sales offices in New York or elsewhere with mills in New England or the South.

Manufacturers of metal products of all kinds have also taken up the telephone typewriter. The principal factor here has been the need for a communication service that would facilitate unified control of separate plants and speed up turnover in a highly competitive market. One of the largest groups within this class of users is the makers of automobiles and accessories. This class uses a total of more than 2,500 miles of wire.

In other process industries involving the use of large quantities of raw materials the plants are generally located at less accessible points, while the sales and general offices must, of course, be in the large center, near the distributor, the exporter or the consumer. This has influenced the adoption of telephone typewriter service by paper companies, makers of flour and other food stuffs and lumber companies. Nearly 5,000 miles of wire are used to provide communication facilities for these organizations.

Besides these types of business, there are numerous other groups, including hotels, department stores, insurance companies, police departments and railroads which use the telephone typewriter as a means of communication between various units.

Wide Range of Service

The flexibility of the telephone typewriter has adapted it to a wide variety of uses in the business world. Among the financial houses it handles sales and purchases of securities, market information and numberless administrative matters where speed means a widened scope of activity.

The commercial or industrial enterprise has adapted it to an equally wide range of uses. The main office transmits specifications and orders for production and quickly obtains answers to inquiries by customers. The plant sends stock lists, information regarding shipments and requests for material.

The headquarters of a company is also able to inform branch offices quickly of price changes and special conditions which require concerted action. Through the close contact established by this channel of communication, the branch office can conduct its business in much the same way as if it were located in another room of the same building. It has access to the same information available at headquarters and is able, in large measure, to dispense with duplicate files and to carry on a much larger volume of business without increasing the office personnel.

One of the principal features of this service is the fact that it provides, at both sending and receiving stations, a written record—in plain English—of every message. There is no chance of inaccuracies or misunderstandings. This fact has induced many organizations using telephone typewriters to employ them for conferences between executives. The conversation is conducted with almost the same ease as if they were face to face, and at the conclusion each has a printed record, obviating misunderstandings and serving as a reminder of the points agreed upon.

A most significant feature of the telephone typewriter is the new and speedier service which the user is able, through close contact between plant, headquarters and branch office, to give his customers. When orders are placed the date on which they will be filled can be learned immediately from the plant. The manufacturing work can be followed closely thereafter until delivery is made. It is the same personal service which the customer gets at the shoe repair shop around the corner, where the same man takes his order and carries it out on the spot.

Facts About the Telephone

Telephone service has been opened between Roumania and Bulgaria.

New telephone wire, in the United States, is being added at the rate of about 10 miles a minute.

The first telephone exchange in the state of Minnesota was established at St. Paul on February 14, 1879—just fifty years ago.

An average of more than 50,000 local and long distance telephone conversations take place in the United States every minute of the day.

Of the total of about $2,800,000 telephones in the world, approximately 27,800,000 or 85 per cent can be connected with the Bell System.

Thirty years ago there were 10,613 telephones in the state of Connecticut. Today there are more than twenty-nine times that number—over 300,000.

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada, operating in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, plans to spend the sum of $7,000,000 on extending Long Distance lines during 1929.

Direct telephone service from London to Vienna, recently established via the underground cables laid by the Austrian government from Vienna to the Austrian frontier, has improved the service so that calls can now be put through within three or four minutes.

TELEPHOTOGRAPHS SPEED STORE'S FASHION NOTES

While the football game between the Army and Harvard was taking place this last fall at Cambridge, the stylist of a New York department store made sketches and notes of the sports costumes worn by the spectators. These sketches were then sent to the New York store by telephotography and were reproduced in an interesting advertisement of the store which appeared in the next morning's newspapers. Six sketches and a short description of each were sent.

DENVER'S FIRST "CENTRAL"

A tablet marking the site of the first telephone exchange in the city of Denver was unveiled this past summer. The ceremony took place at 1514 Larimer Street, where, in 1878, Denver's first exchange was opened. At that time there were 161 local subscribers. Today 85,445 telephones serve the city. The telephone exchange in Denver was the first to be established in the state of Colorado, and nine of the original subscribers are still residents of the city.

LOS ANGELES' GROWTH

The growth of the telephone in the city of Los Angeles can best be realized from the fact that there are now 40 central offices in that city, which is almost twice as many as were operated there in 1922, and that they interconnect more than twice as many telephones. There are more than 350,000 telephones in Los Angeles, all records in applications for new telephones in that city having been broken in September, 1927.

LONDON GETS FIRST PUBLIC DIAL EXCHANGE

The Holborn exchange is the first automatic telephone exchange to be cut over for public use in the city of London. Although Holborn, which is largely a business man's exchange, is the first public automatic exchange to be put into operation in London, the exchange known as Official which connects government departments and also takes calls to those departments from public exchanges, has been worked automatically since 1912. Gradually other exchanges in London will be converted over, but it is not expected that complete automatic exchanges will be in existence throughout the city until between 1940 and 1950.

FIRST-AID TRAINING SAVES SHOCK VICTIMS

Charles Butcher, of Lockhart, Miss., is alive today because J. J. Gartman, section lineman of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, was skilled in first aid work, having taken the course of first aid training through the telephone company. Butcher and his cousin were riding along the street in an automobile when a loose wire hanging from a street arm light struck him about the head and shoulders. He was instantly rendered unconscious through contact with a live wire, but the telephone lineman, who was passing in his car at the time, went at once to his aid, and because of his prompt action in giving artificial respiration, Butcher recovered.

"This is the way to get the biggest value for your fence post dollar"

"When you choose Red Top you are certain you have chosen the best steel fence post. Your judgment is supported by the year after year purchases of such hard and critical buyers as the leading railroads, the United States Government and thousands of practical and successful farmers who insist upon plus values, and having found it will not change.

"There is no element of risk or speculation in using the Red Top for all fence post needs. It is guaranteed. Come in and let us show you the Red Top points of superiority. They are important to you. Tough, springy rail steel gives it durability. The baked on aluminum finish is rust-resisting. The reinforcing rib gives extra sturdiness. The Red Top handy fastener holds the fence securely in its vice-like grip. One man applies it. And the anchor plate is triangular shaped for ease in driving and to anchor the post firmly—fence cannot be rooted up or ridden down.

One man with a Red Top One Man Driver can easily drive 200 to 300 a day and align them perfectly."

Make Your House a Home

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Phillips is the genuine, prescriptive product physicians endorse for general use; the name is important. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. registered trade mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

"Keep ahead of me," I directed. "We're almost at the mouth of the creek and the cabin is close by."

From the opposite bank of the creek came a demoniac shout, and I believed we had been sighted. Yet the cry was different from a discovery-call. It was too ferocious. They had come upon the scalped Frenchman and were voicing their rage. I am convinced the dead man served us well by slowing up the pursuit until we had entered a natural opening, in the middle of which stood Frazier's cabin. The girl gasped and stumbled, and I almost fell over her. Once more I picked her up, this time carrying her cradled in my arms and then threw all my energy into my legs. Howls of triumph sounded in the woods behind me and on my right. Guns were fired, but I heard no sound of the lead.

"I'm all right! Let me down!" she begged.

But the goal was too near. The savages began to show at the end of the woods just as we gained the door, with me yelling for Frazier to open for us. There was no response and my heart sank as I pictured a locked door and the savages doing us to death while we made a last fight. Then my heart beat high as I beheld the rawhide latch-string. In another moment we were inside and I was thrusting my long rifle through a loophole. I spoiled a brawny Huron as he was scrambling back to cover.

"You're powerful strong, mister," the girl shyly remarked.

There was a quality in her voice I had never heard before, and I glanced at her in surprise. The face was enlivened with color. She threw off her hat and allowed her brown hair to tumble about her shoulders.

"You're a mighty brave little woman," I awkwardly replied. "We'll hope to get out of this. But we mustn't be taken alive."

"Lor's me! Fall into their dirty hands! Of course not."

And from her blouse she pulled forth a thirteen-inch Highland pistol. I always held the Highland to be more showy than useful, as its light weight and large bore made it kick villainously and shoot inaccurately. Yet it would remove one very quickly from all fear of the torture-stake.

I took time to glance about the room, at the shelves and stock of trade-goods, at the smith's tools in the corner, and some guns hanging from one wall. In surveying the room I discovered a most vital necessity was lacking. There was no water in the cabin.

I picked up two kettles and unbarred the door.

"You mustn't go out!" she shrilly screamed.

"We must have water. The creek is near. The Indians haven't had time to circle around to the south of us. You have the two rifles. Watch from the back of the cabin. Don't fire unless more than one breaks cover."

"I'll follow!"

"Watch out for me."

I was through the door with the kettles and running toward the creek before she could offer more objections. I reached the water and dipped the kettles full before the savages opened fire. My dash to the creek had either taken them by surprise, or else they had withdrawn a bit to hold a pow-wow. I believe they had withdrawn with a few men standing guard; for the firing did not become general until I was half-way back. At that distance from the cabin I heard the girl's rifle go off.

Running gently so as not to spill any of the precious water, I was pronouncing my race won when a tall savage emerged from the woods on my left and approached at right angles. He fired an arrow while moving at full speed, and then dropped his bow to draw his ax. The girl appeared in the doorway with my long rifle and leaned the heavy barrel against the end of a log. As the whip-like crack rang out the Indian leaped high and came down in a heap.

Still controlling my stride, I was within two rods of the door, where the girl stood leaning against the rifle, when a savage turned the corner of the cabin and darted between us. I set down one kettle and pulled my ax. To my surprise the Indian whirled about and jumped toward the girl. With a scream she sprang back and he followed, realizing it was excellent strategy to kill my companion and bar the door against me, leaving his companions to kill me leisurely.

With a howl of fear and warning, I dropped the remaining kettle and leaped after him. As my foot touched the threshold, the cabin was filled with a deafening explosion and much smoke, and the savage was falling limply into my arms. I hurled him outside, where he fell on his back, his face blown away. The girl was crouching on the floor, her hair partly concealing her face, the Highland pistol clutched in her two hands, and her eyes glaring like a cat's. I was reminded of the scene on Der Hexenkopf.

"Load the rifles!" I cried. Then passing from the cabin and failing to discover any of the enemy in the opening, I ran back to the kettle and completed my errand.

With the door secured, I surveyed the opening from the rear loophole. Something bronze on the grass, a dozen rods from the forest, attracted my attention and finally resolved itself into an Indian.

"Quick with a gun!" I told her. "There's one out there in the grass."

She sprang to my side with my rifle and gave a glance, and then said: "La mister! He won't hurt nobody. That was my first shot when you was gone for water."

"My heart stopped pounding when you went with them kettles," she whispered, winking her eyes very fast. "There was no danger. We must have water. We'll be choking with thirst before night. And if they set the roof afire—"

"I know," she quietly said. "Call late I'll be loading that pistol. It shoots most mortal."

Leaving her to stand watch, I secured the muskets from the wall and rummaged the trader's stock until I had found powder and bullets. I loaded the weapons and set them aside. On a shelf I found a small quantity of smoked meat, tough as hickory bark yet a food one could manage to chew. I told the girl to eat while I took her place at a loophole.

"I'm thinking," the girl remarked—the branch of a tree moved slightly and I watched it suspiciously—"I'm thinking there's more'n one way to stop a fire," she went on, raising her voice to attract my attention.

"I'm thinking there's an Indian climbing a tree, but I can't see anything to shoot at," I grumbled. "If it would only rain!"

"I'm light and spry as a cat, and there wouldn't be any danger," she continued.

"What's on your mind, little woman?" I asked without turning from the loophole.

"These contraptions hides is on my mind most heavy. If we could use 'em they'd save what water we've got."

Now I was interested. She was standing by a pile of dried deerskins. She explained:

"If they was on the roof the fire-arrows would slide off. They're hard and smooth."

Her wit gave me hope, and I asked: "How to make them stay? We haven't time to peg them on. If we try that they'll rub us."

"I'm thinking," she muttered, tilting her small head and holding her chin in her hand. "Course you've saddled a boss many times. Yes, I callate that would do."

Instantly she was all energy. From the collection of smithing tools she secured a sharp-pointed punch and with the back of an ax began making holes along the edge of a hide.

"Don't watch me. Watch outdoors," she sharply ordered.

I turned back to the peep-hole. I could hear her pulling the hides about and talking to herself as she worked. She asked herself if she could find some rawhide strips and in the next breath told herself she could at least make some. Then she was cooling in delight. I stole to the door in time to see a bush move near the mouth of the creek. I stopped its agitation with a bullet from my rifle, but doubted if I had done the enemy any damage. Several shots from the opposite end of the cabin took me to the rear loop-hole. I stumbled over a pile of skins in passing, but had no time to observe the girl. Two or three balls chunked into the logs, but there was no Indian in sight. Hearing it was a ruse to hold my attention I darted to the door again and remained there while I reloaded my rifle.

"Lawful heart! If you wouldn't keep hypering back and forth," she complained. "Now you can look."

And she proudly dragged forward two deerskins, looped together by short sections of rawhide.

"We'll saddle the ridge-pole with these just the same as you'd saddle or blanket a boss," she explained. "That'll be better than pegs. I'll git up on the roof and throw them over the ridge-pole as fast as you pass 'em up to me."

The scheme was feasible. It was simple. It would require but a few minutes to saddle the house with hides. There would remain a strip on each side, but these I could reach from the ground with separate hides. However, I objected to her mounting the roof.

"Your job is to pass 'em up to me," she sternly retorted. "My part is as easy as slipping off a wet log. I can be up there before you could git started. If they come at us, I can be down and inside the door in a jiffy. Git 'em separated out so's we can work fast."

Then she unbarred the door.

Before showing ourselves we reconnoitered from all sides of the cabin. There was not much danger of a musket ball hitting her slim body; and arrows, to hit the roof, must travel so high as to give us warning. I gathered up several sets of the double skins and threw open the door. The savages must have been puzzled by our appearance. None showed along the woods, nor were any lead or arrows fired at us. I dropped the skins and gave the girl a hand, and she was scrambling up to the ridge-pole before the watchers could guess our purpose. I passed up two skins and she deftly draped them over the ridge-pole. I passed up two more. The Indians woke up and began screaming like demons. Guns began banging, and I called to the girl to come down.

"Throw 'em along! I won't budge till you do!" she cried.

I tossed up some more and ducked back to the door and secured both rifles.

"More! More!" she cried.

I handed them up, but warned her:

"Jump down at once. They're coming!"

She took time to fix them properly and then dropped lightly into my arms. Some fifteen savages were breaking cover at different points. I picked out the leader of the nearest band. He commenced leaping from side to side, but I was patient and shot him off his feet. The moment I fired, she had taken the empty rifle and had pressed the short French one into my hands. I fired it and missed. We entered the cabin and dropped the bar.

The Indians advanced swiftly, knowing our rifles were empty. Could they close in before we could reload, they planned to thrust their guns through the loopholes and stop our fire while they battered down the door. But they had not counted on the trade-muskets. We emptied these rapidly. One man went down with a smashed leg. Two of his companions carried him into the woods. The others streaked back as rapidly as they had advanced. Thus far all the honors were ours. I made the girl drink some water and posted her at the back of the cabin while I covered the other three sides.

The Indians, however, had no stomach for another assault in force, and the forest became quiet. I told the girl she was to remain inside while I stepped out and covered the lower part of the two sides.

Old Year Dead When Harvest Is Gathered?

That the calendar by which we count our days does not fit in harmoniously with the seasons is pointed out by an editorial in Liberty Magazine.

"It has long been obvious," explains the editorial, "that starting the calendar on the first of January is all wrong. The year ends with the harvest, when the last grain is in, the leaves are fallen, and the earth has gone to sleep. The closing day of the calendar might well be that one on which we turn away from outward things and ask about the chances of having a little steam heat."

"It is unlikely on the whole, that the calendar makers will agree to end the year with the fall and begin it with the spring, as is meet and proper," concludes the editorial. "We must take January 1 as the beginning of the year because Julius Caesar fixed it that way and nobody has changed it."

Corncob Incense

By soaking dry corncobs in fragrant oils, such as that of sandalwood, cinnamon or cloves, and then grinding them to powder, an effective incense has been prepared, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. White smoke and ashes are produced, and the substance is said to be superior to various other kinds.

Most Widely-Used Letters

The letter "e" occurs more often than any other in ordinary writing according to Liberty. The letter "t" is next in frequency.

No Mental Handicap in Defective Speech

Many educators have held that stuttering is an evidence of psychopathic traits in the mental make-up, and that the child who stutters is handicapped in his educational progress. But according to recent tests made by Dr. Elizabeth D. McDowell of Columbia university, the fault of stuttering in a pupil carries with it no lessening of ability.

Doctor McDowell experimented with 7,138 school children, making tests to indicate the comparative standing in intelligence of stutters and nonstutters, school achievement, emotional adjustment, physical fitness, and various speech defects.

She found that the stuttering pupil had as high intellectual capacities as the normal child, that his vocabulary is just as good, and that physically he is better off. It was even found that a stuttering child could rattle off as many words in a three-minute period as anyone else.

May Have Secret of Famous Violin Maker

A violin maker of Milan has every reason to believe that he has the secret of Stradivarius, the master violin maker of Cremona, whose instruments have long been regarded as the best ever made. The Milanese is in possession of several papers which seem to be the work of Stradivarius giving details of the preparation of wood and varnish for the manufacture of violins. The papers were subjected to the scrutiny of a handwriting expert, and by making comparison with authentic writing of Stradivarius he has declared the writing to be that of the old Cremona violin maker. The Milanese maker has made an instrument following these directions, and it is said to have all the qualities of a genuine "Strad." The papers were discovered by a Roman antiquary to whom an old desk had been sent for restoration. They had been reposing for years in a secret drawer.
